

Hobbies

Whatever spare time I have I love to spend with friends and family, particularly in the outdoors and in sports. I keep fit by jogging, and love to hike, go camping, go mountain-biking, ski (water and snow), and participate in any ball sports. I have often been involved in indoor soccer teams, which is super fun.

Web development would have to be another hobby, although for a short time it became a supplementary source of income. Now I have little time available for any web development.
